Hazrat Umar r.a is the second Khalid e Rashid e Umar r.a. The book is about the deeds and achievements of Hazrat Umar r.a in every aspect. Category:Tabi'un Category:Islamic books

The relationship between age, sex, and the size of the femoral head. A review of 500 hips in 80 patients. In 500 hips in 80 patients, there was a statistically significant difference between the sex distribution and the sizes of the femoral heads. The average female femoral head was 12.9 millimetres (mm) smaller than the average male femoral head. Females who were of an age greater than or equal to 43 years had smaller femoral heads than females of all other age groups. Males of all ages had a greater diameter of the femoral head than females. The authors conclude that for a given population, females are likely to have a smaller femoral head than males, and the diameter of the femoral head is probably larger in males than in females.

Two's company? Just a hunch... My husband is one of the most caring, supportive, considerate, patient, loving people I know. He works hard to make sure that his career and his family are taken care of and that I'm happy, too. When I was pregnant with my first, my husband got the job he wanted. When I was pregnant with my second, my husband got a bigger job, with higher pay and the same number of hours. We were happy about all of this. I'm so glad I met my husband, and I'm so glad I have a loving, caring husband. I'm a different kind of person. I don't really believe that the universe has put two people together for a reason. I don't really think it's God's will for two people to live together. We've been together for 15 years, and it feels like the longest relationship I've ever had. When we first started dating, I hated him. I thought he was horrible. I thought he was cheating on me and I didn't know if I wanted to be with him. And then I met my husband. He was much more patient, kind, and helpful. My husband and I got married when we were both in our late 30s. Our relationship had gotten really good. I was 82157476af
